Fireworks Plant Blast in Mexico Kills Over 100

By JACK RUTLEDGE
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rescue workers dug through a wrecked block of rubble today seeking more victims of two explosions in a fireworks factory that left more than 100 Mexicans dead or injured. Police hunted the factory owner for questioning.

Eleven bodies — four of them firemen — had been recovered late last night. A hundred persons were hospitalized. Many were not expected to live.

Most of the casualties resulted from the second blast, which came as hundreds of curious neighbors watched firemen fighting the fire after the first explosion. Because it was lunchtime, the factory — apparently in a poor residential district — apparently was empty.

Police said they wanted to question Antonio Joyas Chavez, owner of the factory. Officers said his adjoining warehouse was illegally filled with dynamite and other explosives.

The factory was less than a mile from Mexico City's International Airport and many windows in airport buildings were shattered.

Cigarette Smoking Again on Upswing

WASHINGTON (UP) — The government reported today that American cigarette smoking is on the upswing again.

The Agriculture Department said in a publication, "The Tobacco Situation," that domestic cigarette consumption amounted to 302 billion last year, a 2.5 per cent increase from 1956.

The department also predicted reach a record high this year, that cigarette smoking would reach a record high this year. The previous high came in 1952, when domestic consumption totaled 304 billion.

The department said consumption of cigarettes per person (15 years and older in 1956) totaled 3,426 (171 packages). This was one per cent more than in 1955.

Cast of 60 to Perform in Minstrel

A near capacity crowd was expected for the first performance of the 14th annual Kiwanis Club Minstrel Show at 8 p.m. tonight in the auditorium of Hope High School.

Six candidates for the honor of queen were closely bunched and the outcome probably will not be determined until near curtain time. The candidates: Tena Pilkinson, Jane Reinhardt, Alice Watson, Dorothy Smith, Sue Ann Smith and Kay Downing.

The queen will be crowned during the ten-minute intermission of the two-hour show, and then she will reign over festivities during the second act. Harrell C. Hall, Mr. Interlocutor of the minstrel, will have charge of the ceremony.

New stage decorations, new costumes, and a new theatrical lighting system promises to make this season's show the best ever. Stage decorations and lighting effects are under the direction of Henry Seaman.

County Agent Adams emphasized that 4260 acres of cotton land has been placed in the soil bank, leaving 7457 acres to be planted to cotton this year. He emphasized that farmers can concentrate the production practices on the limited acreage so that high acre yields can be obtained. By making high yields per acre with somewhat increased cost per acre, Mr. Adams emphasized that lower unit cost of production could result.

Mr. Miley emphasized that there are several different kinds of fertilizer that contain the three primary plant food nutrients, nitrogen, phosphate, and potash. Straight materials contain only one of these primary nutrients, for instance, ammonium nitrate contains only nitrogen; super phosphate contains only phosphorus; and nitrates of potash contains only the potash nutrient. On the other hand, mixed fertilizers such as 12-12-12 contain all three nutrients.

Mr. Adams states that the best method of determining the kind and amount of fertilizer needed is to test the soil in each field. This can be done by sampling at 12 to 15 places in a field and bring about one quart of soil to the County Extension Office.

Mr. Miley added that there is still time to get soil test recommendations from the University of Arkansas Soil Testing Laboratory for crops to be planted this spring. However, he urged farmers to bring in samples very soon in order to get the results back in time to purchase needed fertilizer.

Progress Reflected in Pictures at Hope Plant

To make the comparison the Star snapped the bottom picture only a couple of days ago, showing the interior of the municipal plant today. Dennis Bell, chief engineer today, is in the left center of the picture.

U. S. Priest Released by Red Chinese

HONG KONG (UP) — Communist China released an American Catholic priest, the Rev. Fulgence Gross, of Omaha, Neb., from prison today six years after his arrest.

In 1953 the Kiwanis club purchased K-Park where little league baseball is played throughout the summer months by hundreds of youths, at a cost of $4,000 and then spent an additional $2500 for bleachers and permanent improvements.

Proceeds from this year's minstrel will be placed in the Kiwanis Boys' and Girls' and Youth Funds to be used to further recreational and other deserving activities.

The 1957 show, to be presented both Thursday and Friday nights, was written and directed by a special minstrel committee, headed by Eddie Whitman as chairman.

Application for Power Line Heard

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Public Service Commission today heard an application by the Arkansas-Missouri Power Co. to build a 16-mile 115,000-volt power line from Paragould to Mississippi County and a substation in Mississippi County.

The line would cross areas served by Craighead and Mississippi county rural electric cooperatives, but the co-ops offered no protest since no customers are involved in their areas.

M. E. Michell, director of utilities for the PSC, heard the application and will make a report to the commission.

The helicopter was attacked to the 30th Air Rescue Squadron at Asiya, Japan temporary duty.

The line will cost $265,000 and the substation $195,000. Michell said.

Big Ben Is Place for Pranksters

By ALVIN SIEINKOPF

LONDON (AP) — The policemen who tramp across Westminster Bridge look up frequently to see whether there is anything unauthorized hanging above Big Ben.

For the famous clock is the place where light-hearted students and pranksters like to dangle odd objects, such as underwear or Russian flags. With spring in the air, the hoaxers are coming out of hibernation.

There probably is no country like Britain for irreverent and imaginative pranksters. This season is starting well, but has not yet reached the subtle heights attained several years ago when a policeman was horrified to see a pair of trousers waving from Big Ben's flag pole.

How such dangerous climbs are managed is always a mystery. It took professional steeplejacks, with a lot of ropes and tackle, a full day to bring down the trousers. The tower is 320 feet tall. The best performances so far this season have been reported from Oxford. The other morning there seemed to be something strange and displaced on the roof of Lincoln College. The building staff found a daintily laid table-cutterly, napkins and glassware all correctly laid out. The prank made no sense, but that is characteristic of these stunts.

Oxford police and many innocent citizens were fooled by another student enterprise. White stripes, in a sort of zebra design, are painted on pavements to indicate where pedestrians are supposed to cross streets. Several new zebras appeared the other morning and police, thinking the city engineer had painted some new ones, enforced the law at spots where students had made some unofficial stripes.

Scotland Yard hopes the hoaxers' enterprise this season will not quite match as episode London had to endure some years ago.

Three hoaxers in overalls and with a truck full of tools drew up in Piccadilly Circus, a dizzy, busy traffic circle in the city West End.

The three men in overalls unloaded a fence and blocked off one of the busiest traffic lanes. Then they opened up the pavement with pickaxes and drug a deep hole while traffic swirled about. The police thought the Department of Public Works was mending a sewer, or something.

Then the three young men went away, leaving their hole. The Department of Public Works was astonished and the police, momentarily irritated, the diggers were never found.

Instructor Finally Learns His Lesson

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb. (AP) — Cecil McKnight built a boat. He built it in a small basement room at the Plattsouth High School.

Cecil got due attention as he fashioned the frame and a full measure of "Bel you'll never get it out" and "Want us to tear out the wall kidding."

I have it figured to the last inch. If I turn the 53-inch beam sideways, I can make the door, a cotter, a hall, the stairs and out the front door with ease.

Came the day this week when the frame was complete.

Then the trial run. Out the door went the boat and into the foyer turn. Then-crunch! The boat was around on a forgotten shoal, a small wall offset in the floor.

Cecil was most red-faced.

For he is the industrial arts instructor and an expert in carpentry.

Ditch the boat.

Nope. Cecil gathered his class and said:

Boys, this proves you can never be too sure of your figures. Remember a man who does not profit from his mistakes is a fool indeed."

Back to the shop went the boat to remain for a time as Cecil's object lesson.

You know," said McKnight with a shake of the head, "my wife's 'I told you so' is what really hurts the most."

Almost Impossible to Bypass Suez

By WILTON WYNN

Cairo (AP) — Western governments will find it virtually impossible to turn the Suez Canal into an idle ditch by building more pipelines across the strait.

Military, diplomatic and economic pressures have not shaken Egyptian President Nasser's grip on the strategic waterway. Some Western leaders are advocating all-out development of alternative routes to minimize Nasser's ability to blackmail the world through his control of the canal.

So far, three schemes have been proposed:

1. A pipeline through Turkey to the Mediterranean.

2. Building more supertankers so large they can take oil from Iraq, Iran and the Persian Gulf.

3. Pipelines across southern Israel from the Gulf of Aqaba to the Mediterranean.

Officers said they were searching Chicot County for traces of several men who, the truck drivers said, commandeered the vehicle.

Wage Dispute Taken to Labor Board

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Delegates from Arkansas will meet with Labor Department officials at Washington next Monday in an attempt to iron out a wage dispute that has delayed the state's superhighway construction program.

Rep. Mills (D-Ark.) arranged the conference.

Representatives of the Arkansas Highway Department, the Arkansas County Judges Association, the Arkansas Municipal League and the Associated General Contractors of Arkansas will attend.

The dispute involves wage scales fixed by the Labor Department for Arkansas jobs under the federal aid program for building of the interstate road system.

Arkansas interests have protested that the scales are out of line with prevailing wages in this state.

It was estimated that up to 3,000 head of cattle perished in the snowstorm.

Although the losses were not regarded as a major disaster in relation to the overall livestock supply, they were tragic to many individual stockmen who had hung on through seven years of drought.

In Texas, Oldham County Agricultural Agent G. C. Franks estimated the cattle loss will total 2,000 to 3,000 head, valued at up to $600,000.

Officials said many of the cattle that survived the storm have been without food for a prolonged period and probably won't be marketable this year because of loss of weight.

At La Junta, Colo., rendering companies were swamped with requests to haul away dead cattle which are posing a health problem due to warmer weather. Losses on ranches in Colorado and New Mexico ranged from 2 to 800 head.

Besides taking a heavy toll of cattle, the storm did little to ease drought conditions in Texas, Colorado and New Mexico. Most of the plains were swept clean of snow, and the winds once again were raising dust in the area.

Hi-jacked Truck Is Found Empty

EUDORA (AP) — Police have found a truck that was stolen near Eudora Monday night but the 225 cases of liquor it had contained were missing.

State Police investigators said yesterday that the vehicle was discovered on a rural road about five miles south of Eudora, near the Arkansas-Louisiana border.

Officers said they were searching Chicot County for traces of several men who, the truck drivers said, commandeered the vehicle.

Hospital Fund Hinges on Land Sale

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — One million of the State Hospital's $1.5 million-dollar construction appropriation for the next two years hinges on the successful sale of the institutions farm properties, the Hospital Board learned yesterday.

This fact was brought out by Gov. Orval Faubus at a meeting with the board.

The revelation apparently was a surprise to the board members. "Frankly, governor," said Board Chairman Olen Hendrix of Antoine, that took some of the starch out of our sails.

Hospital Supt. Granville L. Jones said he had understood that the institution could count on the $1.5 million dollars from the administration's omnibus construction bill. He said he had thought the proceeds of the farm sale could be used for other, unspecified construction.

Faubus and the board met to consider which of two bills he should sign, authorizing sale of some 3,400 acres of farm land owned by the hospital.

The governor indicated he would sign a bill giving the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission first chance at the land, rather than one allowing all state agencies chance at the land before it was offered for public sale.

Martha Hyer
Is a Real
Brainy TexanBy BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope's new leading lady is a green-eyed, honey-haired Texan who has proved that brains are no drawback for a glamour girl.

She is Martha Hyer, 27, a Fort Worth girl who graduated from Northwestern University at 20 with high honors. She has written magazine stories and collects paintings — has a Utrillo, Renoir, Dufy and two Lamases.

But she's no square. Considering her assets, it's no wonder she's on her way to stardom. Martha's career has been booming in the past year with leading roles opposite Rock Hudson, Tony Curtis and Van Johnson. Her biggest break comes next month when she leaves for France to co-star with Bob Hope, Fernandel and Anita Ekberg in a 2½-million-dollar epic, Trouble in Paris. Just think — I get Hope, Paris in the spring and 27 dresses by Balmain, she said dreamily.

Her climb to success hasn't all been easy. She arrived here six years ago after graduating from college and enrolled at the Pasadena Playhouse, spawning ground for many a star. Her discovery was a long-distance affair.

Singer Ella Logan was entertaining troops in Germany, met Marthas father, Col. Julian Hyer, 15th Army judge advocate. Proud Papa told of his daughters hopes, and Miss Logan cabled her agent to help Martha along. The result: a contract at RKO.

She didn't do much more than Tim Holt Westerns here and was dropped after two years. Divorced in 1953, she resumed her career with Abbott and Costello Go to Mars. But after So Big and Sabrina, U-I signed her and her career started to build.

Naturally, I was impatient in the early days, she remarked. But I realized I was too young. Now I look more mature, and I'm in a fortunate position. Most of Hollywood leading men are over 35 (she's being kind) and they require leading ladies who do not look too juvenile, yet are still young.

TV Dramas Feature Crime
and WesternsBy CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK (AP) — The principal themes of recent television drama have become crime and Westerns, with the general subject of show business running third. Its getting monotonous.

Lets take a look at this current week. Ignore the regular Western dramas, the specialists in crime, and all half-hour programs. Combining ourselves to the 11 regular evening drama programs of an hour or more on the three networks we find that six this week are concerned with themes of crime.

Of these six, three make use of Western backgrounds. (Or, you can say that three Westerns make use of crime.) Show business drama is unusually quiet this week, being represented only once (on Aluminum Hour, NBC, Tuesday). The themes of the remaining four are not extraordinary, but they're downright refreshing by comparison.

On Sunday TV Playhouse (NBC) presented a romantic love drama — a theme, incidentally, that seldom spills over from daytime soap opera onto the evening screen. Robert Montgomery (NBC, Mondays) presented an excellent factual about the ditching of an airliner in the Pacific. Studio One (CBS, Mondays) offered a drama of family relationships.

Tonight Playhouse 90 (CBS) will present the comedy Charley Fu. Its surprising if anyone in the country has failed to see this one by this time, but such is ROYAL LOYALTY — Renouncing her title, former Russian Princess Tatiana Oboussoff has become an American citizen. At the conclusion of the ceremony in Boston, she kissed the flag to show her happiness. Daughter of a ballerina and an officer of the Imperial Guard, she fled Russia after the 1917 revolution. She is the widow of Prince Nicholas whom she married in Paris.

Faubus to Sign
Senate Version

LITTLE ROCK, (UPI) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus indicated today he would sign the Senate version of the $164,540,500 highway appropriation bill passed shortly before noon by the special session

State of TV drama in the current week that even Charles' Aunt looks fresh in comparison to the average offering.

It's obviously unfair to try to judge dramas solely on the bases of themes without regard to performances. So this is not an attempt to pass critical judgment on any of the 11. It is simply the opinion of a viewer who has grown tired of crime and Westerns — and dramas about show business.

of the Arkansas Legislature. The Senate bill was amended to authorize the Highway Department to purchase and operate the Tonksuck Ferry across the Arkansas river between Perry and Faulkner counties.

"It's a meager amount, and I see no reason why it shouldn't be signed," Faubus said to questions by reporters.

He said, however, he would reserve final decision on the bill until it had reached his desk. The house version of the bill approved today by the Senate was not amended.

On other matters the governor said he planned to sign the bill by Rep. Virgil Fletcher of saline county authorizing the state hospital board of control to give the Arkansas Industrial development commission part of the

Failure of Laboratory
Tests ToldBy ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A high percentage of certain laboratory tests on your health are wrong, not good enough, a doctor declared today.

The test results partly and sometimes vitally influence the treatment your doctor then gave said Dr. Lewis Smith, a pathologist from Dallas, Tex.

The main reason for poor tests is very low pay usually given medical technologists — the doctor's helpers who run the vital laboratory tests, Dr. Smith told the American Academy of General Practice.

He said too many are paid less than secretaries or typists. The result is too few good technologists and insufficient training.

Dr. Smith said a national survey finds 14 per cent of medical technologists make less than $48 a week; 35 per cent get $68 to $70; 25 per cent $70 to $80 and only 8.5 per cent get more than $80.

Good standards demand a medical technologist have at least two years of college and at least one year of training in a special medical technology school, the doctor said.

Dr. Smith reported a three-state survey some years ago showed 42 to 62 per cent of tests for specific blood measurements were not satisfactory — outside the bounds of acceptable accuracy.

These included tests for ammonia, for blood sugar, blood salts, for nitrogen in urea or blood poisoning, and for blood plasma proteins.

Laboratory tests partly determine whether a doctor decides to give a blood transfusion — which can be costly and not without hazards — or start other treatments.

Dr. Smith declared erroneous or not-too-accurate laboratory reports can be responsible for a major number of prolongations of illnesses and some deaths.

This apparently meant that the governor will reject a similar bill by Rep. Paul Van Dalsem of Perry county authorizing the board of control to sell the farm-lands outright.

Faubus Favors Ferry That Costs $25,000

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Legislature has wound up its brief special session after adopting two versions of a highway appropriation bill.

Only 15 minutes was required for the Senate to finish its final day of business. But a battle raged in the House over attempts to kill the Senate bill which provides $25,000 for the state to buy Toad Suck Ferry on the Arkansas River between Faulkner and Perry counties.

The regular session of the General Assembly quit March 14 without passing any budget measure for the state Highway Department. The special session was called Monday to deal with the 164-million-dollar requirement.

Now Gov. Orval Faubus has two highway bills—the Senate bill with the disputed ferry amendment and the House bill without it.

Faubus has announced that he intends to sign the amended Senate measure.

The state put the Toad Suck ferry into operation less than a year ago by giving a contract to a private operator.

A group of House members acted together in an effort to defeat the Senate bill and the ferry provision. The House had to quit at noon because the Senate already had voted to adjourn at that time and one house cannot be in session without the consent of the other.

When the Senate measure was called up, Rep. W. L. Ward of Lee had an amendment ready to require the Highway Department to widen a bridge in east Arkansas. It was voted down.

Then Rep. Jack East Jr. of Pulaski sought to get through another amendment to strike the provision for Toad Suck Ferry.

East said he went to the Highway Department yesterday morning and learned that the state already had paid for the ferry once. He said the state paid $20,000 to the private operator of the ferry in 1956 to build it.

Now we are being asked to pay $25,000 more for it," he said.

East's amendment lost.

During his speech on the proposal, East had made some remarks to Ward about keeping quiet. Shortly after the speech was concluded, Ward went to East's desk and there was a mild scuffle between the two. Other members moved in to separate them while some shouted, "Fake, fake."

Speaker Glenn F. Walther of Pulaski refused to recognize either Ward or East for the purpose of talking about the scuffle on points of personal privilege. If they could have won the floor in that manner, they could have held it for an hour or past adjournment time.

Ward appealed Walther's ruling to the entire membership, but the speaker said he refused to recognize them just to filibuster against the Senate bill.

Chicken Takes Over in the Markets

By The Associated Press
Shoppers accustomed to seeing beef featured at third favorite store will find chickens taking over the most prominent position this week.

Fryers and roasters, anywhere from 2 to 6 cents a pound cheaper than a week ago, will be the specialty in many stores. This unusual situation was brought about in part, meat men say, by the recent heavy snowstorms in the Midwest's lamb and beef-growing areas.

Lamb, anywhere from 2 to 12 cents higher in many areas, is featured in only scattered localities. Beef, too, is not nearly as popular as usual for the special feature treatment.

Pork prices are expected to be higher this spring, since hog slaughter is running 15 per cent behind last year.

Turkeys, on the other hand, are expected to maintain their recent low levels, and may well go even lower in price.

Record packs last year also mean low prices for certain types of canned food such as sweet corn, peas, tomatoes, peaches and fruit cocktail.

Fresh vegetables, on the outstanding buy list in most areas this week, include storage potatoes, root crops like beets and rutabagas.

Pascal celery, beans, onions and such greens as kale, spinach and collard also are good buys. Cauliflower is a bit lower in price. The gradual decline of asparagus prices as the top comes to market continued, but the spears are not yet rated as good buys in most places.

Florida sweet corn also is more attractively priced this week and

The Rare Adventure by BERNARD FERGUSON

THE STORY: During the siege of the gendarmerie at Seknou, off Tunisia, telephone lines were cut. But Allan Lang suggests to Captain Billon that other lines on the island are working and perhaps they can be tapped.

XVI

"Colonel! Wake up! You're the first colonel I've ever awakened with my foot!"

"Brisebarre? Four o'clock already?"

"No, more like half past. The party's due to begin in less than an hour. Here, have some hot coffee. Your idea was a wizard one. We've improved on it, though: we've brought a line back right into the Gendarmerie, and we've been listening in from here. We got a conversation about 2 o'clock, and they're going to attack this place at a quarter past five."

Billon was sitting at his office desk listening to the telephone, with a pencil in his hand. He waved to Allan, put his finger to his mouth, and then jotted down some more notes on a pad of yellowish official paper in front of him. Then he beckoned to Ali Aza, who was standing beside him, to take over the instrument again, and came over to Brisebarre and Allan.

"They are going to attack simultaneously at 6:15 a.m.," he said. "The Seknou men are commanded by Kassim Mourali, and he got his orders in Berber. The Seknou men are to scale the wall with ladders from the north and west, from the direction of the town and out of the lane, while the Areg men rush the front doors and windows and climb the wall on the hospital side. The actual signal is to be the blowing of a horn.

"Thank you. With your permission I will speak to Monsieur Brisebarre in English, and then there will be no possibility of a misunderstanding. . . . Brisebarre, they are counting on two things—surprise and the fact that they will be attacking on all fronts at the same time. They've lost the surprise, and we are on the inside and can fight outward in every direction. When they start shooting,

"Splendid," said Allan. "I know you are in command, and I am ready to obey all your orders, but I've got one or two ideas."

"You are a soldier of great experience; I am a political officer.

It is tactical skill that we need now. I would be very interested in your suggestions."

"Thank you. With your permission I will speak to Monsieur Brisebarre in English, and then there will be no possibility of a misunderstanding. . . . Brisebarre, they are counting on two things—surprise and the fact that they will be attacking on all fronts at the same time. They've lost the surprise, and we are on the inside and can fight outward in every direction. When they start shooting,

Beck Quizzing Hottest Show in Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The quizzing of Dave Beck, who rose from laundry truck driver to the biggest wheel in the Teamsters union, is providing the hottest show on Capitol Hill since the 1954 Army-McCarthy hearings.

It is taking place in the same arena—the cavernous caucus room of the Senate Office building where white marble walls stretch two stories high, cameramen cuss each other in the crush and newsmen are packed at press tables like sardines without olive oil.

Only the red carpet has been changed. The old one wore out.

This time McCarthy is not the center of attention but only one of the eight senators on the special Rackets committee. He is seated on the left wing of the long committee table.

Though McCarthy occasionally questions the witnesses with flashes of his old form, the sharpest probing is done by Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) and Counsel Robert F. Kennedy whose brother Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is a member of the committee.

The taxpayers show up for this one. They were in line 2½ hours before yesterday's opening session waiting for seats. Some got them. Others got standing room along the walls and at the rear.

Union Leaders May Call Beck to Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Several members of the AFL-CIO high command today sharply criticized Teamsters President Dave Beck for loosing a flood of Fifth Amendment pleas rather than answer the questions of Senate investigators.

But most willing to comment said they would wait until the AFL-CIO Executive Council's extraordinary meeting Friday before taking a stand.

The council was certain to have before it a demand that it punish Beck by attempting to break his power as head of the nation's biggest labor union. That could start a monumental struggle within organized labor.

Beck's use of the Fifth Amendment yesterday before the Senate Rackets committee apparently flouted the AFL-CIO Executive Council's code of ethics.

The code states that a union official who invokes the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination is unfit to hold office and should be ousted. Beck voted against the ban when the council passed it.

AFL-CIO First Vice President Walter F. Reuther already had said Sunday that Beck should be ousted from the Executive Council if he used the Fifth Amendment to withhold his financial records from the rackets committee.

ing they will be killing each other!"

"Right," said Allan, when Brisebarre had finished. "Now we've got a surprise for them up our sleeve. Everybody remains in hiding behind the balcony until Captain Billon gives the word; and then, just before the assault, we turn on the searchlights, all at once. It will throw them into confusion, and blind them, and we can shoot either a few as an example or dozens if they're coming on like a lot of dervishes and really have to be given a bloody nose."

"But what about the garden walls?" objected Billon. "The searchlights cannot reach behind the garden walls."

"I've thought of that," said Allan in French, and went on in English to Brisebarre: "that's an advantage too in every way. We move the two searchlights on the garden side of the house inward, so that they shine inside the garden."

Brisebarre translated, and Allan began to answer, but Billon shut him up, saying to Brisebarre:

"And add this. It will be no pleasure to me to kill these people. When the ram's horn blows, I will switch the searchlights on. And then I will speak to them through the megaphone there"—he nodded into a corner of his office—"and I will give them one more chance. If they come on them I can kill as many as may be necessary. But I give you my word of honor as a French officer, not one man more than is absolutely necessary."

Allan went to wake Mollie so she could take the women to a safe place.

He gave her a hand with the job, helping Sister Marie-Angeline to climb the stairs, and giving a hand on a second trip with the voluminous belongings of the dispenser's family. The erstwhile Smashing Blonde was even beyond tears now; she had aged 5 years in 24 hours. Her gentle friend bestowed her in a corner with a sort of contentious affection, and then came over to Allan with the air of one penning a deal on the black market.

"I understand, Monsieur," he said, "that fighting is likely to begin shortly. I suppose there isn't a spare rifle to be had, eh? I can no longer hope to fire very successfully from the prone position!" he glanced down at his enormous tummy "but I can still shoot around corners. And I have done the War of '14."

Highway Work Bids Total $3.7 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Apparent low bids totaling approximately $3,725,000 on seven road and bridge projects were opened today by the Arkansas Highway Commission.

Bids on a 4-lane highway from North Little Rock to the Little Rock Air Force Base, divided into two projects, totaled approximately three million dollars.

A joint offer by Ben M. Hogan Co. and Reynolds and Williams, both of Little Rock, was the apparent low of three bids on one phase of the 4-lane highway. The Hogan-Reynolds bid was $1,900,037.

J. B. Michael Construction Co. of Memphis bid $2,069,439 and T. I. James and Co. of Ruston, La., offered $1,926,462.

W. B. Jeffrey Construction Co. of Fort Smith was the apparent low bidder with $1,006,354 on the other portion of the federal interstate project.

A total of 62 bids were received on the seven projects.

The projects, by counties, with the apparent low bidder and the amount of the bid:

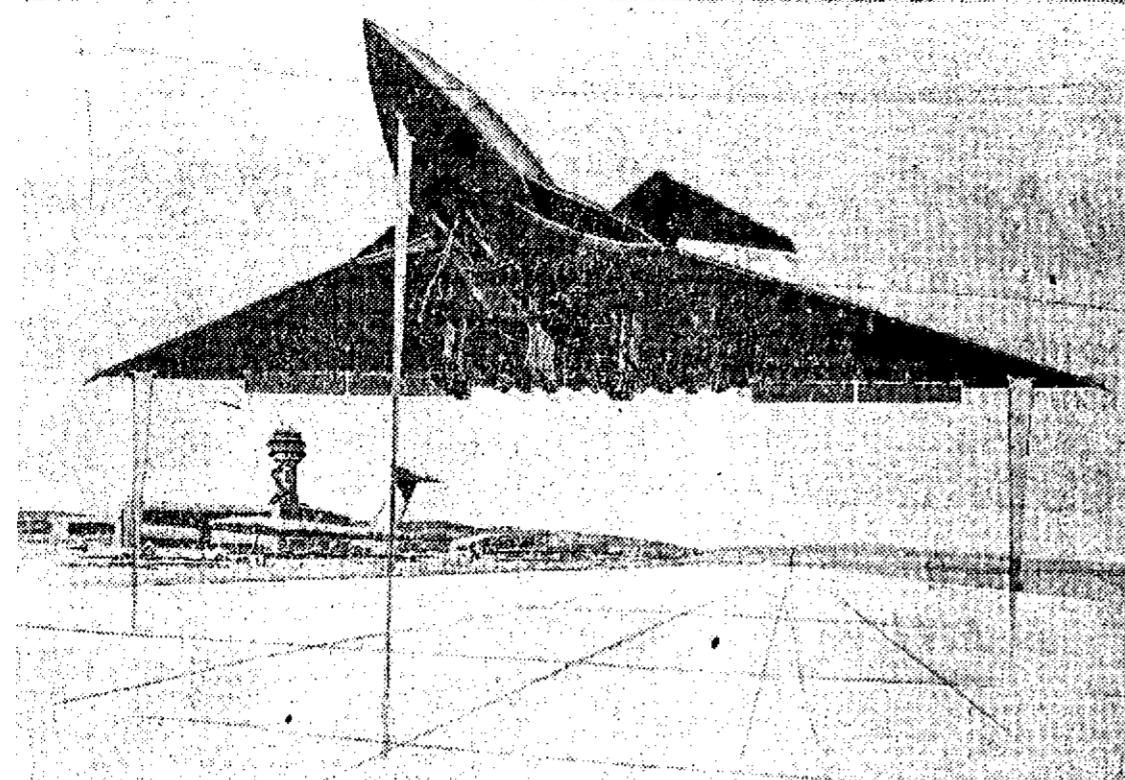

Lee County—Approximately 8.4 miles of surfacing on State Highway 1, from a point near the Phillips County line to Marianna; Don Hudson, West Helena, $811,204.

Arkansas—Surfacing of about 2.1 miles, including 75 feet of bridge, Arkansas Post State Road, beginning at the junction of State Highway 1 and extending south-eastward to Arkansas Post State Park; Graves Brothers, Inc., Pine Bluff, $88,404.

Cleveland—Approximately 6.8 miles, including 43 feet of bridge-length culverts, on State Highway 35, from Roston southeastward; Graves Brothers, Pine Bluff, $128,312.

Lincoln—Surfacing of about 2.4 miles, including 98 feet of bridge, on the Varner-Arkansas State Prison Farm Road, from the junction with U. S. Highway 65 at Varner to the State Prison Farm; Graves Brothers, Pine Bluff, $70,488.

Pulaski—Construction of four lanes, frontage roads, four main bridges and 10 smaller bridges on Jacksonville-North Little Rock road, U. S. Highway 67, a distance LANDING ON RADAR "STILTS"—This sketch illustrates operation of radar landing "stilts" for the huge planes of the future, as predicted by Lee Orlinger, atomic scientist of Northrop Aircraft, Inc. He described the revolutionary concept at a meeting of the Society of Aeronautical Engineers in Chicago. The "stilts" will enable planes to land safely at other than fixed bases, without direction from the ground. The three electronic pulses seen in sketch would automatically measure the distance of the plane above ground and through an "electronic brain" computer consider the plane's speed, adjust controls to maintain proper landing attitude and set the craft down on the landing strip automatically in any weather.

The primary purpose of the Bermuda meeting was to mend the split—due to a loss of confidence—between the United States and Britain. The split occurred last fall when Britain, joining France and Israel, attacked Egypt.

Tells Evils of Modern Life Tensions

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stresses and tensions of modern life have made some men and women sterile Dr. Robert N. Credick of Duke University said today.

Emotions and stress can affect body hormones and nerves with consequent effects on fertility, he told the American Academy of General Practice.

Study of psychological factors in sterility has been a major part of newest scientific efforts to help such couples, Dr. Credick said.

Stress is most times due to physical causes, some of which can be detected and corrected. In about 30 per cent of cases, failure to have children is due to lack of fertility in the husband.

Emotional stresses apparently act through a vital brain center, the hypothalamus, the physician explained.

Both in man and in animals, this center can produce changes in body hormones, in nervous responses, and consequent functioning or malfunctioning of the reproductive organs.

Anyone who owns a herd of dairy cattle has long been aware of the effects of emotional upsets on milk production. The stresses of modern life have also taken their toll in human sterility, but there is no need for alarm in regard to our continued existence. Four million babies a year has become our national average, and the major needs from now on will be enough food and water.'

Load of Liquor Hi-jacked, No Clues Found

EUDORA (UP)—State Police and Chicot county officers said today they had no clues to the disappearance of a truck-load of whiskey which was hi-jacked late Monday near here.

Two Greenwood, Miss., men, Harold D. White and V. M. Blunt, told officers they were driving north on U. S. 66 about six miles south of here when a siren-equipped car pulled alongside their truck.

They said a man pointed a rifle at them, ordering them to pull to the side of the road. The truck driver and his companion were handcuffed separately and made to sit in the rear of their captors' car.

White said another car drove up and it and the liquor truck were driven off, north on the highway.

White and Blunt were driven around between Chicot and Eudora until 10:30 Monday night. White said the ride was probably to keep us away from a telephone. Finally, they were released near Grand Lake, unharmed, and they notified police.

White and Blunt told their captors took their billfolds at one point but returned them after counting the money. They said the hi-jackers warned them not to try to identify them by looking at police photo files.

If you do," the hi-jackers said, someone higher up than we are will take care of you.

The truckers said their truck, driven for a Greenwood distributor, contained 229 cases of assorted whiskey, gins, wines and rum. They said they were en route from Tallulah, La., to Greenwood.

Little Rock, Arkansas, is known as the "City of Roses," because of the profusion of roses in its residential areas.

An interesting and beautiful sight in the city of Magnolia, Arkansas, is the large and old magnolia trees on the courthouse grounds.

Nasser it had lost confidence. The British were for direct action. The Eisenhower administration wanted to go easy.

Before Eisenhower and Macmillan parted Sunday they issued a public statement on what they discussed and agreed to. It was full of "trite opinions" and showed the two men hadn't agreed on much of specific import.

After Eisenhower left, Macmillan held a press conference where he said he and Eisenhower had agreed on the policies the United States and Britain must take to obtain interim and long-term settlements in the Middle East.

The public statement has said no such thing. Yesterday at his news conference Secretary of State Dulles said there had been no agreements on the Middle East. Dulles also said there had been no written understandings not made public, except one.

He said there was a "general" understanding for reviewing the intelligence arrangements which we have concerning aerial.

On Monday at his White House conference with congressional leaders—to tell them what had happened at Bermuda—Eisenhower reportedly said there had been no secret agreements.

His White House press Secretary, James Hagerty, repeated that statement last Monday.

Yesterday again Hagerty said Eisenhower and Macmillan had made no secret agreements.

Stricken Baby to Come Home for a Visit

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Mark Steven Lawrence will come home from the hospital this week—but no one is sure how long he will stay.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Lawrence, parents of the bright-eyed 3-month-old boy, are going to "face each day as it comes and try not to think of the future."

Mark is the victim of porphyria here believe has never before been recorded in a child so young.

The disease—an inborn mistake in the baby's metabolism—interferes with the conversion of food into living tissues.

And there is no telling when it might strike again.

Mark weathered the first attack only by a narrow margin. Doctors said that at one point he was clinically "dead"—his breathing stopped—for a period of two or three minutes.

Emergency action with positive oxygen pressure revived him.

The child's father, a Baptist minister studying at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary here, said he and his wife first noticed the trouble about two weeks ago. Mark was unable to swallow milk. His throat muscles wouldn't work. He couldn't cough or cry with any force and he became irritable and nervous.

It was the child's irritability that led doctors to suspect porphyria—which sometime causes severe angling and inflammation of nerves.

Chemical tests confirmed the doctors' suspicions.

A big help to Mark was a tranquilizing drug used in treatment of the mentally ill. It quieted Mark's nerves.

And, the minister said, he and his wife prayed and their friends prayed.

Mark, who will go home tomorrow on Friday, is again eating normally and has a lusty cry that sounds "mighty good to his par
